BRICKER MAKES FORMAL PRESIDENTIAL BID

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

NAZIDOM'S great man, who claims to work his wonders by intuition, indeed seems to have had a flash of second-sight (or was it just horse-sense?) during his recent Munich beer-cellar speech when he told his people in about so many words that they were headed for mountains of grief.

The titanic battle on the Russian front has worsened suddenly for the Hitlerites. Two outstanding developments indicate that this greatest of all armed conflicts is in the midst of another far-reaching crisis. These events are:

1. The Red avalanche has engulfed Zhitomir, thereby slashing Hitler's thousand-mile front virtually in two, and pointing a spearhead at the Polish border, some 60 miles away. It is one of the key victories of the war.

2. The Germans today announced that half a million Russian troops have broken through the Nazi defenses in the Dnieper-bend trap which the Muscovites are trying to close about the Hitlerites in that region. This hasn't been confirmed by the Soviet.

The Berlin statement about a breakthrough at the trap would seem to be calculated to prepare the German public for another big withdrawal of their forces in that area. As a matter of fact it wouldn't be surprising if the retreat already is well on its way.

If this is true, there is direct relation between the retreat in the extreme south and the dangerous extension of the Red wedge which has been driven into the Nazi line at Zhitomir to the north. A deep thrust through the front above the Dnieper bend would render the German position on the southern flank untenable.

The mighty Russian war-machine is gathering momentum as the ground freezes. Thus far the Germans have averted a debacle by the solidly withdrawing of their units, and despite the critical developments there's no sign at the moment that they won't be able to continue falling back with some semblance of order. However, their position has steadily worsened and they're on the broad highway to ultimate disaster.

IT'S AN amazing thing that the Russians have been able to keep their terrific offensive moving through the terrible fields of mud produced by the fall rains, especially as they had been driving steadily since July 12 and by all the rules of war were due to pause for rest, repairs and consolidation of gains. The weather and the mud were in favor of the defending Nazis, and the fact that they were unable to halt the superiority of the Russian striking-power.

While the Hitlerites have been able to retreat without falling into a general rout, they not only have been suffering heavy casualties but have lost a colossal amount of materiel. The steady loss in manpower has been serious, for the harassed Fuehrer has just about drained his reservoir of reserves.

These, youth and in middle-age. Still it may well be that, so far as concerns the exigencies of the moment, his loss in materiel has been a steeper blow.

If Hitler's war industries were running full blast, and pouring out

No Secret Agreements Made At Moscow, Sec. Hull Reports

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Secretary of State Hull, in his first public report since his historic conference with the British and Russian foreign ministers, said today no secret agreements were made in Moscow.

Expressing pleasure over the reception accorded the Moscow declarations by the American public, Hull said the agreement reached among the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia and China came about because each of these big nations is trying to push away from isolationism toward what he described as sane international principles.

Hull repeatedly emphasized the importance he attached to the Moscow decision looking toward international organization for world peace.

He disclosed that he had been conferring with American leaders

Deputies Probing Rural Area Thefts

LISBON, Nov. 15.—Sheriff George Hayes and his deputies today are investigating two cases of breaking and entering and livestock thefts in the district during the weekend.

Joseph Pusak reported that his home in Knox township was entered last night for the second time in six weeks. Pusak grappled with the intruder whom he recognized but was unable to apprehend.

The office of the J. W. Fletcher Mining Co. in Wayne township was broken into and various articles of equipment taken.

County Commissioner Clarence L. Robinson reported that "black market" thieves apparently killed and made off with a hog on his farm in Wayne township. The hog was not butchered on the farm, but was there, the carcass loaded into a truck and hauled away.

Roscoe Nye, farmer near Perry garage, reported the theft of 34 chickens from his farm. Officers arrested two juveniles from the garage district, who have implicated a third in the theft.

Two Are Released From Jobs In Relief Office

LISBON, Nov. 15.—Two of the four Columbiana county relief office workers were released today by county commissioners in compliance with a state law which provides that only 12 per cent of the actual relief load may be used as administration funds. Relief needs have dwindled in the county until where only two employees can be retained.

Released are Miss Bernice Harbaugh, director of the office for the last year, and Miss Irene Denmore of East Palestine, clerk, who had been in charge of WPA certification.

223-TON BOMB LOAD TUMBLES ON JAP BASES

Three-Ply Attack Ends Enemy Air Offensive From That Sector

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 15.—American bombers, in a perfectly coordinated three-ply attack, dropped a record load of 223 tons of explosives on Alexishafen and Madang, ending for the time being an increasing threat to Allied positions on New Guinea.

The mission was to smash bases from which the Japanese had been strafing Australian troops and American aircraft in New Guinea's Merham and Ramu valleys, and apparently supplying forward bases.

Shortly after dawn Saturday P-40 and P-39 fighters strafed the two airstrips at Alexishafen, starting towering fires at the expense of one plane downed by severe anti-aircraft opposition.

Then came wave after wave of Liberator bombers followed by Mitchells. The 223 tons they dropped was the heaviest load ever thrown against New Guinea and was second only to the 350-ton raid Oct. 12 against Rabaul in the entire Pacific theater.

Given Thorough Blasting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said great fires were started in fuel and supply areas, four enemy planes destroyed on the ground, anti-aircraft positions silenced, three luggers and five barges destroyed in the harbor and the entire area given a thorough blasting.

A strong force of fighting formed a protective umbrella, but not a Japanese plane rose to fight. Our bombers struck also at Rabaul and Gasmata on New Britain and raked both Buka and Buin on the northern and southern extremities of Bougainville. Five float-planes were destroyed at their base on Kapungmarangi Island and three cargo ships torpedoed and bomber in night attacks on Kavieng, New Ireland.

As to land fighting on Bougainville, where U. S. Marines secured a beachhead at Empress Augusta bay Nov. 1, Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., commander of the South Pacific forces, visited the farthest point of penetration on Friday and commented, "Progress now is heartening."

Halsey conceded the landing had been perhaps the most difficult of the entire Solomons campaign but said the advance was proceeding ahead of schedule.

King and Badoglio Exodus As Italian Heads Hinted Soon

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, Nov. 15.—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio's pledge to resign as head of the Italian government when Rome falls was followed today by strong indications King Vittorio Emanuele's abdication is only a matter of time.

Dr. Leopoldo Piccardi, who quit as minister of labor and commerce on the heels of Badoglio's statement yesterday, reflected the general attitude and is near for the monarch when he told friends he could not afford to be associated with the premier's proposed "technical cabinet" and, by inference, with the king.

By his statement he would quit when the Allies reach Rome. Badoglio reversed previous declarations he would stay in office until the Germans are driven from the country.

Badoglio's decision was a direct result of his refusal to take part in any government which unseats the king.

"When I was 17," the marshal said at a press conference, "I swore loyalty to the king and will keep faith as long as I live."

In a statement, issued last night, he confirmed reports Count Carlo Sforza, pre-Fascist foreign minister, and other political leaders had declined to join a government under

BLAST NAZI TRANS-ALPINE ROUTES

DESTRUCTION OF NAZI main communication lines through the Alps has made headway with the bombings of (1) the Mt. Cenis tunnel entrance to Northern Italy and (2) the Brenner Pass. Causing much concern to the Allies are the two Swiss tunnels St. Gothard and Simplon (3), indicated by the arrows. Although these are not "German gateways," possibility of Nazi trickery and even defiance is given much consideration. Sending military supplies as "farm machinery" is an old German game and the Simplon tunnel comes out uncomfortably close to German installations at Iselle, Italy. The Swiss, encircled by Germany, are openly worried and have told the world that they will "guard their tunnels until they have to blow them up."

New Soviet Drive Threatens Gomel To Poland Rail Line

(BULLETIN) MOSCOW, Nov. 15.—Masses of Red army infantry, cavalry, tanks and self-propelled guns pouring into the hole west of Kiev to Baranovka have reached a point only 35 miles from the pre-war borders of Russia and Poland.

A 42-mile advance took Soviet columns into Baranovka since the capture of the rail junction of Zhitomir on Saturday.

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Nov. 15.—The German high command announced today that Russian Cossacks and tanks, in a sweeping drive west of Gomel, had driven to Rechitsa, about 30 miles to the southwest on the railway linking Gomel with Poland, but had been beaten back in attempts to capture the town itself.

Rechitsa's seizure would sever one of the two remaining rail lines over which Nazi defenders of the old fortress of Gomel might fall back to escape the encircling Soviet movement.

The advance along the northern edges of the vast Pripiet marshes also threatened to split off the northern German armies from the forces of the central front.

Another Berlin broadcast acknowledged the German evacuation of Zhitomir, rail junction on the Nazis' last north-south railroad artery east of the old Polish border, whose fall threatened to cut the central Nazi forces off from the southern German armies. Moscow said the Russians were 30 miles west of Zhitomir.

The broadcast reported renewed Soviet attacks northwest of Kerch in the drive against German and Rumanian forces sealed off in the Crimea, and fresh Soviet attacks in the Dnieper bend.

The Red army, expanding its salient west of Kiev, was surging close today to the vital rail junction of Korosten, capture of which would give the Russians control of a 50-mile stretch of the Leningrad-Odessa railway system between Korosten and Zhitomir.

HOUSE GROUP ASSAILS OPA

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Office of Price Administration was roundly assailed today by a congressional committee which accused it of having promulgated "illegal, absurd, useless and conflicting" regulations and of having "construed its power to authorize it to sentence citizens of the United States to starvation."

The committee, headed by Rep. Smith (D., Va.) and created by the Smith to check on activities of executive agencies, recommended changes in existing law to "retain and strengthen inflation control and at the same time eliminate the abuses and injustices now apparent."

Conceding a need for "extraordinary governmental action" in time of war to mobilize the nation's economic as well as military resources, the committee said "there are right and wrong ways to accomplish these purposes, the wrong way being by usurpation of power by executive agencies through 'misinterpretation and abuse of powers' granted by congress and the assumption of powers not granted."

Charges Are Listed Against the OPA it made this charge: "The office of price administration has assumed unauthorized powers to legislate by regulation and has, by misinterpretation of

Bombers Visit Sofia Railway Yards Sunday

Blast Balkan Communication Line: Nazi Planes Over Allies' Lines

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 15.—American B-25 Mitchell medium bombers ranged in force over Sofia yesterday, the first air attack on the Bulgarian capital from this theater in a blow designed to dislocate traffic over the whole Balkan rail system, while around in Italy the battle lines remained virtually unchanged.

Other bombers swept into France for their third crack at the important another railway viaduct near Cannes the night before, and light bombers shot up the harbor of Civitavecchia on the west coast of Italy.

Escorted by P-38 Lightnings, Mitchells dipped over Sofia's railway yards, dropping tons of explosives on the target. Nine out of approximately 24 German intercepting fighters were shot down.

Official reports described the bombing as "extremely accurate," with explosives smashing down on locomotive repair shops, car assembly shops, a main line depot, a ripping up tracks in the yards.

"This successful opening of the Balkan offensive has a far reaching consequence," an official announcement said.

Vital Railway Line

"The Sofia railway yards link up with rail routes through Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria and congestion at Sofia would have the effect of dislocating traffic over the whole Balkan rail system."

In all the day and night air operations, including fighter sweep over the battle areas and attacks by fighter-bombers on railway targets, camps and motor transport yesterday in northern Italy and Yugoslavia, the Allies listed one plane as lost.

Concerning ground fighting across Italy, the daily communique said only that the Eighth army had carried out successful patrol action while on the front the enemy maintained a firm defense.

(The Budapest radio, quoting a Hungarian news agency report, first reported the Sofia bombing last night. The broadcast said "several waves" of enemy planes attacked about midday and that several persons were killed.)

The Germans have sent fighter planes back to Italy in the great

Freedom of Press In Postwar Plans, Urged by AP Head

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Post-war peace plans should include definite assurances that newspapers will have an opportunity to present truthful and complete accounts of world events, in the opinion of more than a score of leading American news executives and writers.

Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, wrote in a survey of "journalism in wartime" that newspapers should have free and direct access to news of all governments, enabling the press to present the truth to peoples the world over.

The survey was published last night by the American Council of Public Affairs.

Cooper asserted free dissemination of truth would lessen the chances of war.

"Availability of news at the source," he said, "with the resulting competition in getting it and preparing it for publication understandably will lead to the disclosure of the truth to all peoples. And it is the truth that makes men free."

He urged a crusade by the American press for universal adoption of the principle of free accessibility of news to all papers and news services in all countries of the world.

Exclusive access to the news of governments can only be gained by a news service through its subordination to the government that affords such access," he said. "That means that the government's news story can be told in only one way, the government's way with the resulting perversion of the truth when necessary to serve that government's purpose."

Cooper said the American press is "the strongest newspaper force ever developed in any nation" and should give to the entire world "the principles of its idealism."

Given Kiwanis Post COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Ford B. Worthing, state defense council press relations director, since the council was formed two years ago, will become public relations director of Kiwanis International with headquarters in Chicago tomorrow, it was announced today.

He formerly was connected with newspapers in Mt. Gilead, Greenfield, Canton, Columbus and Zanesville, O.

WITHDRAWS AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Will Enter Ohio Primary: State Contest Has Four Probable Candidates

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Gov. John W. Bricker announced formally today he was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. His statement also renounced any bid for a fourth term as governor.

"In view of the great needs, confident of the fact that that Republican party will be called upon to lead our nation at the next election, I shall be a candidate for president of the United States in the Ohio primaries and before the Republican national convention," he asserted.

His only reference to delegates in any state was that he would seek COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Chairman Ed D. Schorr said today the Republican central and executive committees would meet at noon Thursday in the Seneca hotel to endorse Gov. John W. Bricker for president.

to win support of the Ohio delegation.

The governor said last week that his action in other states would be determined by events "as they come to pass."

His withdrawal from the gubernatorial picture threw open the field to four potential candidates who, according to all reports, refused to withdraw during a dinner held last night and thus clear the way for one of the quartet and prevent any intra-party dispute.

Public Interest Is Guide "There comes a time in the life of every public official when he must make important decisions regarding his own service," the governor said. "The public interest should be his sole guide in those decisions. It is necessary to the preservation of the institutions of the republic that a public official relinquish office and authority at the proper time as well as assume it when there is a need for his services."

"The worship of power and the desire to hold perpetually on to public office on the part of an individual, especially with the tremendous patronage that goes with the executive offices of the country could easily destroy our free government. The principle is the same applied to the community, to the state or to the nation."

"At the recent Mackinac conference of the leaders of the Republican party, I said that the next

De Marigny Invited To Leave Bahamas

(By Associated Press) NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 15.—Alfred De Marigny, whose deportation was urged last week by the jury which acquitted him of the murder of Sir Harry Oakes, has been invited to leave the Bahamas, along with his close friend, the Marquis Georges De Visselou.

An order was issued after a meeting of the governor-in-council Saturday.

Nassau censorship prevented the transmission of the information until this morning.

The governor-in-council is an executive group composed of the governor of the Bahamas, now the Duke of Windsor, colonial officials and the governor's advisers. The Duke himself is in the United States, and did not take part in the session.

It was learned that Mexico will be a haven for the two men if arrangements can be made.

They plan to leave within the next two weeks.

De Visselou was shocked by his inclusion in the order.

Nancy Oakes De Marigny, the acquitted man's wife, was depressed by the development.

Governor of Nebraska Will Seek Third Term

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 15.—Gov. Dwight Griswold, Nebraska's Republican governor, announced today he would seek a third term as the state's chief executive.

Last week the Nebraska congressional delegation, entirely Republican, said it had agreed to support Griswold as a "favorite son" for the GOP presidential nomination, and then for vice president if it appeared there was no chance of his getting the presidential nomination.

ORGANIZED LABOR IS NOT IMMUNE

William Green's protest, as president of AFL, against war labor board proposals to restrict the kind of high-handedness practiced by John L. Lewis as leader of United Mine Workers, isn't hard to understand. Mr. Green doesn't want to help pay for the excesses of another labor leader. But he is on ticklish ground when he threatens to boycott WLB for suggesting the need of more authority. That merely suggests the need for the board's recommendations.

As a labor leader, Mr. Green has seen and approved much legislation to restrict high-handed practices by management. From the time of Theodore Roosevelt, the congress of the United States has been preoccupied with legislation designed to curb practices growing out of the development of business enterprise. As recently as the early days of the New Deal, when business-baiting was the foremost fashion of the times, this legislative trend continued—not because all business needed to be punished but because a minority had abused its power.

Unfortunately, the restrictions imposed to curb a high-handed minority often had the effect of hurting business in general. Mr. Green and all other labor leaders know exactly how that worked, in terms of their own experience with laws prescribing methods for dealing with labor. They saw all employers punished for the policies of a minority. But it is not conspicuously on record that they objected to it. Now that they are in danger of being given responsibility for Brother Lewis in their own field, it should be clear to them that organized labor, like business enterprise, cannot evade responsibility for the abuses practiced in it.

WIDE OPEN TO CHALLENGE

The farm price subsidy argument about to reach a climax will find the administration squarely opposed to the farm bloc in congress. While other minorities will take sides, this is going to be the basic contest.

The administration intends to argue that the choice is between farm price subsidies and farm price inflation, leading to more demands for higher wages to compensate for rising living costs and hence into a stronger trend of inflation. There is no question about the generally higher price of farm commodities; the only question is whether to cushion their impact with government subsidy or to let the impact fall directly on consumers.

The farm bloc rebuttal apparently will be that the latter is preferable because farmers are entitled to higher prices as a matter of economic justice, rather than government patronage, and that the impact will not be sufficiently hard to justify demands for higher wage rates, with the inflationary result that the administration predicts.

The real question, however, would seem to be over the administration's premise that a policy of subsidizing farm prices will check inflation. This claim must be taken on faith; there is nothing in experience to support it. The farm price subsidies paid to date under existing legislation do not prove the administration's case, which stands wide open to challenge not only on the basis of probability but on the basis of experience. It would be a sorry outcome if, after paying the subsidies, prices of agricultural commodities continued to rise and wage increases based on their rise continued to be allowed.

LET'S QUIT BEING NAIVE

In the Washington whoop-de-doo over Secretary Hull and in the general trend toward hero worship of this distinguished citizen for his part in the Moscow conference there is a strong trace of national naivete.

Just to balance the books on the matter it should be borne in mind that he did nothing more extraordinary than carry out the mandate of the congress, the chief executive and the American people by meeting with representatives of great Britain and Russia to explore their mutual problems and advance their mutual interests. If he did a good job, that is gratifying, but hardly to be regarded as either unexpected or sensational.

Mr. Hull is conceded by most of his countrymen and even the critics of the administration in which he serves to be an able man; events have confirmed his judgment more often than the judgment of some of the less able men with whom he is associated. He has had his ups and downs, his disappointments and triumphs, and he has survived them all with a dignity that has endeared him to a great many people looking for adult relief in the atmosphere of childishness that sometimes seems to have descended over our government.

If Mr. Hull proved anything in his Moscow mission he proved what really shouldn't need proof: That this country, cursed with an inferiority complex in its dealings with other governments, need not lack representatives of statesman stature. His countrymen think Mr. Hull represented them properly at Moscow. They never should need to feel any other way. They have a right to expect proper representation.

YOU FIGURE IT OUT

Government officials are working on upward price revisions for coal to take care of the mine wage increase which miners obtained in the deal between their union and Secretary of Interior Ickes.

The deal was made contrary to public policy, according to public members of the war labor board. The board's authority in the dispute was shelved because it couldn't be stretched to accommodate the subterfuge of giving miners the wage increase they demanded under the name of adjustments in their working condition. This scheme, it is claimed, "holds the line" on wage stabilization while actually disregarding the line. That would be a good trick if anyone could do it.

The public has followed the twistings and turnings of the long dispute with coal miners to the best of its ability. Sometimes, they have been too complex to comprehend. But ultimately, the public always ends up with a clear clue to what happened in these devious negotiations. If the price of the commodity goes up, that means someone sliced off a bigger hunk of the consumer's purchasing power. When and if the clever settlement of the coal strike finally reaches the ordinary consumer in the form of an increase in the price of coal, he will have no further trouble figuring out what happened. He will know.

For Tuesday, November 16

MATTERS of minor consequence may engage the attention on this day, according to the prevalent configurations. Routine affairs may be active in connection with contracts, agreements, writings or with agencies, publicity or promotional enterprises. In these, however, it will be necessary to keep alert and act with precaution since there are omens of fraud, errors, misrepresentation or other forms of treachery. With care and initiative, matters may move satisfactorily.

If It Is Your Birthday

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Physical Defects In Drafted Men

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
FOLLOWING UP the report we made last week of the lack of motor fitness in high school graduates as found at the University of Illinois,

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

We have the official figures on the causes of rejection in the army among applicants 18 and 19 years old.

The gross figures show that 23% of white youths were rejected for physical defects, and that 45% of negroes were rejected. This seems surprisingly high in both groups.

The chief cause of rejection among the negroes was defective education. This is a shocking reflection on our civilization, but a subject with which this column does not deal.

Causes of Rejection

The chief cause of rejection among the white applicants was eye defects and the second mental disease. This was nothing to do with mental deficiency which comes in a different category. The applicants rejected for mental disease were actually insane.

Hernia, the subject that is heard about so much, is sixth in the list among both whites and negroes.

Ear trouble, heart disease and underweight stand pretty high.

Breaking these figures down, the eye trouble was blindness in 44 out of a thousand applicants. Defective vision in 24 out of a thousand.

Deafness was comparatively rare, but running ears occurred in 10 out of a thousand cases.

One cause of rejection that the layman finds hard to understand is why the applicant is rejected on account of his teeth. Having a denture will reject you. So will a sufficient number of missing teeth. This was explained to me by a submarine officer who said when the men had to escape from a submerged submarine they held a rubber respirator in their mouths which gave them oxygen until they reached the surface.

Without good teeth they couldn't do it. But there can't be enough men in the submarine service to account for all the rejections. I suppose it is mostly that they have to be equipped with means to eat anything any time—no matter how much bragging we have had on the army food.

Heart disease ranks fairly high, but the boards are very strict on heart disease. Foot trouble does not show a very high percentage. I presume most develop foot trouble after they get in the army.

Occupations of Unfit

Looking over the occupations of the rejected it is somewhat strange to find more farmers rejected than any other kind of worker. We had always thought of the rugged farmer as the prime example of good health. But not at all. White collar men are healthier than the farmers.

The record as a whole is certainly not anything to be proud of. It is true the medical examiners have been more strict in this war than the last. But even so in a young age group to find 23 per cent of white applicants so physically disabled they can't even march, and 45 per cent of colored, does not speak well for the nation.

When we begin to do some post war planning it might be well to remember that charity begins at home.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—Congressional hopes for obtaining a firsthand report on the Moscow conference depended entirely on Secretary of State Hull himself today, but the question of obtaining information from cabinet officers. Two resolutions have been introduced in the house asking that Hull report before a joint congressional session, but it was learned authoritatively they will be pigeon-holed unless he secretary signifies a willingness to appear.
Rep. Fulbright (D-Ark) expressed hope Hull would "tell us about the conference" and added:
"In fact, I think it would be a good thing if members of the cabinet would come up and address Congress from time to time explain what they are doing and what they have in mind. It would make for a feeling of mutual confidence."
Chief reason for the decision to leave it up to Hull as to whether he will appear has been the fear expressed in some quarters it would open a general discussion of foreign policy and politics.

REBUTTAL
Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) feels that those who fall about of radio commentators should be given a chance to talk back. The Montana senator is chairman of the senate Interstate Commerce committee which is considering a bill to give guidance to the Federal Communications commission in the control of radio broadcasting.

"I feel," said Wheeler, "that if any commentator slanders a person, then that person should have the right to answer his charges on the same hour and the same program."

WAR BOND ADS

This week the senate expects to wind up consideration of a bill to provide funds for paid war bond advertising. From $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year would be made available as the bill now stands. There is some opposition, however, from senators who take the stand the project would amount to a subsidy which might endanger a free press.

JAPAN TRIES FACE-SAVING

Military experts in Washington picture Japan as rolling her tongue around a few sour grapes. They point out this is the anniversary of the worst straight-cut naval defeat she has ever suffered—the night actions which led to the clearing of Japanese from Guadalcanal and Kiska, losses to her people as the giving-up of unneeded installations. Now the grapes are tart again as she is pushed back steadily at Rabaul and ponders over how she may make bad news look good.

Report Marshal Petain May Have Suffered Stroke

BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 15—The newspaper LaSuisse, in an editorial note to a Vichy dispatch on the failure of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain to appear on a balcony before crowds yesterday, said today it had reliable information, "naturally unconfirmable," that the aged marshal had suffered a stroke.
The French nation was told Saturday night to stand by for a speech by Petain but he failed to make the broadcast, and no explanation was given.

Beastly Brutes Make Homey Hubbies--At The Zoo Anyway

By ELLIOTT CHAZE
AP Features

NEW ORLEANS — Brides and prospective brides who have misgivings about the effect of war's fighting and killing upon the manhood of America may find reassurance in the observations of a student of animal behavior and a professor of psychology here.
They agree that ferocity and ruthlessness in a male do not necessarily make him a cut-up, or a cad around the house. In fact, they may have exactly the opposite effect.
Says George Douglass, superintendent of New Orleans' Audubon park zoo:
"A lion knows he's tough and he doesn't have to kick the little lady around to prove it. Seems like the more aggressive the animal, the better family man he makes."
Says Dr. John Fletcher, professor of psychology at Tulane university: "Persons who lack confidence in themselves are often extremely irritable in marriage. America's fighting men are taught confidence and they certainly are getting rid of a lot of petty inhibitions on the battlefields."

Day at the Zoo

This thesis stemmed from a Sunday at the zoo and a check-up with Douglass and Fletcher crystallized the impression.
"Our lions often stay up all night roaring sweet nothings in their ladies' ears," Douglass said. "A lion's idea of a love rap would kazo a cow, but it's all right in a family way so long as they understand each other."
He also pointed with pride to the domestic idyll of the park's two kodlak bears, Richard and Louisiana.

Richard is 10 feet tall. He has a head the size of a small beer barrel and when he grins, which is seldom, his face looks like the radiator grill of a truck with a wealth of ivory where the chromium would be. Louisiana is smaller, but as unfriendly looking.

Perfect Couple

Douglass said they are a perfect couple. From adjacent cages they play paws through the bars. Richard delights in tickling his sweetheart's pads with his five-inch claws and conducts himself with the assurance of a beau who has had no complaints.
The Pumas get along well, too. The Russian brown bears are downright smug in their snug steel bungalow. Eve nthe snakes make pretty much a go of marriage at Audubon.

But the timorous, soft-eyed males of the deer family lead riotous home lives.

"From the elk on down to the scary spiral-horned antelope," the superintendent said, "they butt

Helpful Tricks in Saving Used Fats

TAKE ANY TIN CAN and tie cheese-cloth loosely over top. Or set an old strainer on top, and leave it there. Add every drop of kitchen fats you can no longer use for cooking. Or just throw fats into can unstrained, and when can is full, strain the whole lot at once into another can.

PLEASE HELP! Used fats no matter how black are needed desperately for ammunition and for medicines. Save them in a tin can, not glass. Any kind of can will do. Rush them to your meat dealer. Start doing it today, won't you?

THIS BURGLAR GLAD TO SEE POLICEMAN

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 15—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Dorland, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Del Fino, returned to the Dorland home last night after dining at a restaurant. Mrs. Dorland noticed the front door lock was broken, and inside the four heard a noise like tinkling coins. "I'll bet it's a burglar," Mrs. Dorland gasped, running to the bedroom door.
It was Dorland and DelFino grappled with the intruder, and the trio fought its way into the kitchen where Mrs. Dorland grabbed a milk bottle and conked the intruder on the head.
He still struggled, so she wielded the quart bottle again with such force she shattered it. The man paid a brief visit to the unconscious.
When he returned he saw a gun in the hand of Patrolman Ambrose Mahoney. "Boy, am I glad to see that," he sighed. "I was afraid it would be another milk bottle."

How many more days, Mummy?

"Tell me. How many more days before Daddy can come home?"

And mother doesn't know. So she answers the same way she's answered a hundred times . . .

"Not so many days . . . we hope. Daddy can't come home to us until the war is over. Until we win, you know."

Nobody can tell the thousands of bewildered little hearts when their Daddies will come home.

Nor the millions of other Americans when their husbands, or sons, or sweethearts will be back.

The tragic truth is that many of them will never see their loved ones again. Never.

But this we do know . . . Every minute by which the war can be shortened means fewer lives lost—fewer white crosses on a lonely hillside.

Your job is to put every dollar you can possibly dig up into War Bonds. The fighting equipment bought by your dollars will hasten the day of Victory . . . the day when the boys come marching home.

Don't slacken your Bond purchases while victory is within our grasp! Never let it be said that while the attack grows stronger on the fighting fronts, we at home failed to back it to the very limit of our ability.

Dig down deeper. Buy extra War Bonds. Help shorten the war by those vital minutes—or days, or months—which mean American lives saved!

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
Aunt Carrie then said: "We're not out of the woods yet. There's more trees to climb before we find our way out. And I am to blame. So I don't expect to get off scot-free," she added with a sigh.
"Don't you go in for a Cassandra act," I admonished, convinced that she was cracking under the strain. I should have known Aunt Carrie better. She was ready for more stress and strain on Tuesday. It was her fortitude, plus the large umbrella she had the wisdom to take along, which gave us shelter at Henry's funeral. That was a ghastly enough business without the slanting rain which came pouring down to add a final note of misery to the sad scene.
"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you," the minister intoned. "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."
There were no more than twenty people at Henry's grave and they stood huddled into groups—clumps frightened, inanimate figures withdrawn from one another behind barriers of suspicion and terror.
When the service was half over, Commodore Knowlton came stamping across the sodden ground and stood brooding at the foot of the grave, with his hands on his inevitable gold-knobbed stick. He watched with hooded eyes while Pam bowed a handful of roses on the little white coffin. Then, as the first spadeful of earth thudded after the flowers, the Commodore glided away as grimly as he had come.
As we moved forward, Pam, heavily swathed in crepe, dropped her arm and lifted the veil that covered her face. She stood for a moment peering at Aunt Carrie. Her eyes were speculative, accusing. But there was something more in their somber depths. I knew it wasn't grief.
The next morning I found out what that look had meant. I had looked myself in my own room with Friday's script. Suddenly I heard Pam out on the terrace. Strange how unmistakable that voice was when it had lost the magic of its black velvet. Pam was screaming. That's the only word for it.
"Why didn't you come to me the minute you found out?" Pam was demanding.
"Henry gave me her confidence. I couldn't betray it." Aunt Carrie's voice was so calm I knew it must exasperate Pam.
"Bibi! You're not fool enough to think that was important. Henry'd be alive now if you'd come to me—or made her tell me she knew."
I said the same thing Monday, Pam. Since then I've come to the conclusion that she never had a chance after you decided to fight in the dark."

"You concluded! You're acting as if I'm responsible for my child's death. Maybe you'd like to pin the blame for Pete Everard's murder on me, too?"
Aunt Carrie didn't reply. Perhaps she hadn't heard. I tried to find the key to their cryptic words.
"I want an answer to this one!" Pam shouted. "You told the Commodore, didn't you?"
"That's what you came to ask, isn't it?"
"Yes. You knew yesterday at Henry's grave that I'd come as soon as I could. You betrayed Henry's confidence to Commodore Knowlton, didn't you?"
"Not till after she was dead."
"I don't believe that."
"I told the Commodore yesterday morning. I thought he had a right to know who the child was, so he could decide whether or not he wanted to go to the funeral."
I raced to the terrace then and as I opened the screen door and stepped out, I heard Pam storming.
"What business had you to tell him if I didn't? From now on keep your mouth shut! This is my secret. Not yours."
"Not Henry's any more, either. But the Commodore's perhaps—"
Aunt Carrie broke off on a note of interrogation: "Well, Hilda?"
"I've been eavesdropping from upstairs," I confessed. "And suddenly I remembered that can listen from the kitchen, too, if they want to. So you'd better come into the house if you've anything more to discuss."
Aunt Carrie gave me a strange, speculative look. They both came into the library with me.
"Have you heard anything you didn't know already?" Pam demanded as I closed the door.
"Do you mean—the Commodore is Henry's great-grandfather? Aunt Carrie didn't tell me and I hadn't guessed—"
"Naturally not! You've so little imagination." Pam's voice mocked me.
But why should she believe me? Well, it was all so clear to me now. I recalled the day when Henry sat in the witness chair at the Everard inquest. As she gave her testimony she looked like Commodore Knowlton; she even managed to sound like him.
Why hadn't I guessed what Henry meant when she stood facing the furious old man in our hall without any fear and said gravely: "You wouldn't talk to me that way if you know what I know."
But the Commodore hadn't known. He had brandished the gold-knobbed stick of his and I'd termed: "You sniveling brat. . . I'd like to wring your neck."
Then I wondered: How could I be so sure he hadn't known? I'd always feared him, always distrusted him. Perhaps I'd been right.

"He's her great-grandfather and Miss Babcock wants me to believe he didn't know it when he killed her," Pam said scornfully.
Aunt Carrie answered crisply: "The Commodore did not kill Henry. You know that as well as I do."
Pam's voice was shrill now. "Are you screwy enough to think I killed my own child?"
"No." Then Aunt Carrie added realistically: "She was much too valuable to you alive."
"Never mind the dagger. I adored my baby. Everything I did was for Henry. But there's nothing more I can do for her. It wouldn't bring her back if I sent both the Knowltons to the chair."
"If you want me to sit in on this conference," I said in the most functional tone I could contrive, "you'll have to supply a few gaps my imagination can't leap."
"Do you stick to your story that Aunt Carrie kept the dark secret from you, too?" Pam asked.
"It was Henry's secret." Aunt Carrie's tone had a hint of exasperation. "The child stumbled across it accidentally. She was lonely and thought your scrapbooks might amuse her. What she found out bewildered her and frightened her, too. She came to me for help. I explained as much as I could and told her to go to you for the rest."
Pam laughed shortly. "It was my secret. And I didn't know till last night that Henry was in on it. I discovered that she'd been prying while I was packing to get out of this accursed Havenhurst."
Aunt Carrie protested: "Henry wasn't prying. She had a right to know."
"That was for me to decide." Pam said coldly, and added defiantly: "But I want to be sure you both understand one thing. I was married to Hank Knowlton. Naturally the marriage license wasn't in the scrapbook Henry lugged over here."
"But how do you know Henry brought your scrapbook to me? Who told you?" Aunt Carrie asked.
"You told me. You left a Glenn-acres napkin to mark the page that interested you most—the one that told of Hank's death. And I know you were the only person in this house Henry'd blab to—"
Aunt Carrie interrupted and her words sounded exactly like hallstones. "Is this a brokenhearted mother mourning her child?"
Pam turned on her with fury. "Have you any idea what I've been through because of Henry? Can you guess what it was like to fight my way up from the bottom with a baby in my arms? You've never had a kid, you pious old maid! I had mine when I was seventeen."
"Unless you want everyone to hear, you'd better stop shouting," I warned.

Pam gulped. "All right. I'll tell you my story, quietly if I can. . . I was married to Hank eleven years ago. I'm twenty-eight now. I was dancing in a New Jersey club when I met Hank. I thought he was the angel Gabriel or better. When he said our marriage was to be a secret I clamped my mouth shut and I'd have kept it shut till kingdom come except for Henry. It's this way: When Hank went home and told his folks he'd married a dance-hall girl named Paulina Drunkenstall they kicked him out. He couldn't take it. He took a deep-sea dive instead. I read about his drowning in a newspaper. I was going to have a kid and no way to support her but dancing every night."
"Why didn't you appeal to Hank's grandfather then?" I asked.
"Don't make me laugh. I appealed and appealed. But the old devil wouldn't see me. He wouldn't even speak to me on the phone. I always got put off by the flannel-mouthed butler—"
"It must have been Higgins," I put in. "He recognized your voice the very first time you came here. And Mrs. Higgins told me something that fits in—"
"I'll tell you something else that fits in, though I'm not sure you're going to like it," Pam said. "You're really the one who's responsible for this whole mess. You're the one who gave me the idea of coming to Havenhurst this summer. You and Pete Everard, that day at Sibboney's. Remember?"
I nodded. In that moment I could actually see Pam sitting at Sibboney's with her hands so taut on the table edge that her knuckles went white.
"You look as if you were seeing phoets," Pam observed. "Well, I thought Pete was a ghost when I first saw him. He thought perhaps Hank had never been drowned, that they'd just made it up to separate us."
(To be continued.)

"Eight-Ball", Dog Mascot of PT-Boats

(By United Press)
ADVANCED MOTOR TORPEDO BASE, CENTRAL SOLOMONS—(Delayed)—Probably only dog in the world ever to become mascot of a PT-boat squadron on active service in a war zone is "8-Ball", long, lean, rust-colored mongrel of Russell Islands descent, who got here only he knows how.
Purchased from natives "somewhere in the Russell Islands" some few months ago by Lt. (jg) Robert del Johnson, USNR, of Far Hills, N. J., "8-Ball", left behind when his master went "up the line," followed soon after by Lieutenant Johnson, frankly, doesn't know how he made it.
For a dog as smart as "8-Ball", however, the feat seems simple. We were patting "8-Ball" today when the air raid klaxon sounded: One "beep," a long one, is the all-clear; two shorts are condition yellow, or enemy aircraft approaching; three shorts, condition red, enemy aircraft overhead. "8-Ball" jerked away his intelligent ears peiked skyhigh, on the first "beep." On the second, he started moving. On the third, his lope changed to a dash and he disappeared from view into a nearby fox-hole.
On the all-clear, he jauntily leaped from the fox-hole into the jungle declaring, trotting engagingly up to our left leg and resumed tugging. "8-Ball", according to del Johnson, never fails to get searick on his patrols with the PT's. But it is rarely that he permits himself to be left behind. He has been with the squadron since February.
According to del Johnson, "8-Ball" should be strictly a "base dog." He merely stares at flying fish while at sea. Ashore, however, he chases lizards. Unfortunately, remarks del Johnson, "he never catches them."
Mrs. Hollenshead Hostess As White Ribboners Meet
COLUMBIANA, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Emmett Hollenshead received associate members of the W. C. T. U. at her home Friday afternoon. Mrs. T. B. Hyland led the devotions, which included a duet, "Hymn of Praise," written by Anna Louise Sheppard of New Springfield and sung by Mrs. G. G. Patchen and Mrs. Roy Suchner.
Mrs. Hollenshead conducted the business meeting. Plans were made to hold a covered dinner at the meeting Dec. 10, at which time a gift exchange will be featured.
The program included a paper, "Are You a Christian Citizen?" by Mrs. Hattie Heaton. Mrs. Hollenshead read an article, "The Home Place for Moral Training." The society was divided into two groups with Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Buchner as captains in a membership drive.
Mrs. Howard Kyser is a patient in the Salem City hospital, where she submitted to an appendicitis operation.
The meeting of the Past Noble Grand's club of the Rebekah lodge will be held at the lodge hall next Thursday.
Among the local draftees who left Thursday for training in the Navy at Great Lakes Naval training station were Joseph Ehart, Sheldon Frankel, John Hildebrand, Marion Johnson and Lawrence Cox.

Leontonia Native Dies

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Clyde T. Willson, 72, retired newspaper composing room employee, died Saturday at his home, 79 Schley ave., Ingram, after a long illness. Funeral service was held this afternoon, with burial in Homewood cemetery. Born in Leontonia, O., Mr. Willson spent his youth in Kittingburg before moving to Ingram. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Freda M. Willson; a son, Kenneth Clyde.

a king they consider tainted by Fascism.
Badoglio now has abandoned efforts to form a representative government. He announced Saturday he would set up a "technical cabinet"—a mere government framework in which minor functionaries would carry on necessary work until the capital is freed.
The premier said Count Sforza and others had asked that the king abdicate and that Crown Prince Umberto renounce the succession and that the latter's son, the six-year-old prince of Naples, should become king under a regency.
Badoglio said he was forced to refuse these conditions.
His refusal and decision to resign once Rome is reached, by a political paradox, removed the one strong prop that has kept Vittorio Emanuele on the throne he has occupied for 43 years.
When Badoglio resigns, the king, under the constitution, must try to form a new government. With all political parties united on the ground they would not join any government under him, he presumably would have no alternative but to resign.

Doctor Gives Tips On Keeping Healthy On the Swing Shift

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Features Writer
See here, Swing-Shift Susie—better be kind to that body of yours, or your topsy-turvy life will get you down.
That's the sage advice of Dr. Victor Heiser, author, physician and traveler who spends most of his spare time now lecturing to women factory workers on fitness.
Though American women, he says, "can and do adapt themselves to any environment, climate or circumstances more readily than any other women in the world—very often they bite off more than they can chew."
In the first place, he says, "no woman should work over five and a half days a week; otherwise it won't be many months until her work slows up to where nothing has been gained by the additional hours."
Get Enough Sleep
Night clubbing is another health hindrance. Girls with more money to spend now than they've ever had, he says, sit up half the night and expect to be fit for their jobs in the morning.
His big concern right now, however, is women who work on the swing shifts. He believes at least two or three days should lapse between changes of shift so that normal adjustments can be made to new eating and sleeping habits. Also, the shifts shouldn't be changed more often than once a month.
Work for women today—under modern conditions can combine play and pay, says Dr. Heiser, providing they don't abuse themselves. Even grandmothers, he says, are improving physically and mentally by return to daily manual activities.
He outlines the following seven fundamental health rules for women in war plants:
1. Be sure you are physically fit before taking a war job.
2. Eat wisely of the five essential foods: milk, whole wheat bread, eggs and meat, leafy vegetables, and citrus fruits.
3. Avoid excessive overtime; follow sensible hours.
4. Beware of lifting weights. A good general rule is that a woman can lift one-third of her body weight.
5. Dress sensibly. Long, loose hair, loose clothing, jewelry and high heels cause accidents.
6. Watch your posture.
7. Don't take your home responsibilities to work with you and don't take your plant responsibilities home with you.

More Comfort With 'Blown' Rock Wool

You spend your life seeking bodily comfort for yourself and for your family because you know that better health and happiness will result. Actually, you are seldom conscious of being comfortable, but you instantly realize when you are uncomfortable. You like to live, work, play, eat and sleep in comfortable places, and comfort to a large degree is governed by temperature. When you feel cold, you seek warmth. When you are hot, you seek coolness.
Most people think they live in comfortable houses, but actually this is far from true. Many dwellings are little more than shelters from wind and rain. In spite of the most modern heating systems, these houses are usually cold, drafty and hard-to-heat in winter. And in summer, the hot rays of the sun heat the interiors so that they remain extremely uncomfortable long after sundown.
The purpose of insulating a house is to help prevent summer heat from penetrating through walls and roofs, and to help prevent interior heat in winter from escaping to the cold air outside. When this is scientifically done, houses are comfortable the year 'round and become healthier and more pleasant places in which to live.

Let Smith Garage Check Your Car

Anti-Freeze is a very important item to consider this year, for should you neglect your car and burst the radiator, you would find that, to get a new one, is a real problem.
You should not add anti-freeze without having all hose and other connections inspected, for anti-freeze fluid will leak when water does not. The safe way to avoid the expense of replacing anti-freeze is to drive to the Smith garage, E. Third and Vine ave., and let them inspect your car, clean out the sediment that is sure to be present, install the anti-freeze and rust preventive.
Precision firing by allied anti-aircraft units has been responsible for a substantial portion of enemy air losses in the present war.

Still Time To Plant Shrubbery

A few more weeks at the most, maybe a few days will close the landscape and orchard plantings for this year. You simply cannot do the work and expect good results after the ground freezes solid.
Right now is the time to choose your nursery stock from Cope Bros. and Fultz, then hurry it into its new location. A little frost will do no harm but actually frozen ground will.

NEXT WEEK-END'S TWO-GAME SLATE IS ANTI-CLIMAX

Ohio State Goes To Ann Arbor; Oberlin Plays Baldwin-Wallace

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—With Ohio State pulling a 29-26 verdict out of the fire 12 minutes after the game apparently was over, Oberlin winning the state championship, Xavier copping its first win in six starts, and Kenyon completing its first undefeated campaign since 1892, the weekend furnished plenty of fireworks on the Ohio collegiate football front.

The Bucks, who powered their way to four touchdowns on sustained drives only to find them matched by lightning-like thrusts by Eddie Bray and Eddie McGovern, Illinois' light but speedy backs, called on John Stungis, third-string quarterback, for a 25-yard placekick in the "fifth minute" of the verdict.

The teams were recalled from their dressing rooms for one additional play, officials ruling Illinois had been offside on an incomplete pass as the gun sounded ending the fray at 26-26. Twelve minutes were required before they were ready to start again, and Stungis was playing the tenor saxophone only two years ago at Powhatan Point High school made good on the first field goal of his career to annex the decision.

Wins State Crown

Oberlin wrecked Wooster 21 to 0 for its sixth win to clinch the state title, and if the yeomen can "take" Baldwin-Wallace next Saturday they'll wrap up the Ohio conference laurels as well. Kenyon, which played only four games, defeated and tied both Otterbein and the Kenyon army unit in home-and-home series to join Oberlin as Ohio's only unbeaten squads.

Xavier, after losing in a row, defeated Wayne of Detroit 36 to 0 to become the last of the Ohio teams to enter the victory column. Miami, the team which tied Indiana (which defeated Ohio State), romped over Baldwin Wallace by 40 to 6, while other results were: Kenyon 13, Kenyon Army Unit 6; Ohio Wesleyan 32, Bowling Green 20; Wilberforce 25, West Virginia State 2; Bucknell 19, Case 13.

In addition to the Oberlin-Baldwin-Wallace game, next Saturday's slate calls for Ohio's trek to Ann Arbor for the classic with Michigan's highly-rated Wolverines.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Pigskin post-mortem: ... It probably was the grand climax of an unusual season Saturday when Texas U. actually sent in the water boy—four-foot, 11-inch Billy Andrews—to kick a couple of extra points against TCU ... up to last week there hadn't been as many oddities on the field as you might expect in a season when colleges officially dropped football, then came back with "informal" teams, when some players turned up on two or three different teams through navy transfers, when student managers were pressed into service, when colleges like Columbia had stars of All-America caliber right handy, but ineligible.

GRIDIRON GREMLINS

Some of Saturday's strange happenings:
North Carolina and Army scored all-important points when their opponents' forward pass attempts from behind the goal line were grounded in the end zone for safeties ... one of these a season would be enough ... Penn State had to recruit officials from the stands for its game with Temple when the men assigned were late in arriving ... Ohio State's players had to be called back from the dressing room to kick the field goal that gave them a 29-26 decision over Illinois.

HIGHER AUTHORITY

When some one asked Greasy Neale, rough and ready coach of the Phil-Pitt Eagles, why he never ran on the field to dispute decisions like the other pro coaches, Neale replied: "I'd like to, but I've been ordered to remain on the sidelines."
The surprised questioner asked where such orders came from ... Greasy looked sad and replied: "My wife."

MONDAY MATINEE

The war plant that employs the Indians' Oris Hockett plans to appeal the ball player's 1-A draft classification because "toolmakers are hard to find"—so are good outfielders, but either way Hockett won't likely be playing next season.

NO SALE

The other day Ford Frick, National league president, tried to put over a fast one on Brooklyn's Branch Rickey by suggesting they bet a hat on the football game of their old colleges, DePaul and Ohio Wesleyan ... showing that his mind isn't always on baseball, Rickey shot back: "No you don't! I read the papers, too."—DePaul, if you haven't noticed, has the nation's highest grid scorer in Bob Steuber an da flock of other nifty trainees who have helped Bob pile up the touchdowns.

HAVE-NOT COACHES NOT CRYING OVER UNUSUAL SEASON

Iowa Hawkeyes Only Team That Has Failed To Crash Win Column

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Next Saturday marks the windup of the Big Ten conference football season, noted for the total domination of play by schools bolstered with players from other universities. But are the "have-not" coaches from Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio State, Wisconsin and Minnesota crying? No.

Oh, Ray Eliot of Illinois may have a tear or two in his eye after that screwball affair down at Columbus Saturday when his team was routed out of the dressing room after playing a 26 to 26 tie with Ohio State and forced to watch Johnny Stungis of the Bucks boot an extra-pointing field goal that spelled a 29 to 26 defeat for the Illini.

But in all Messrs. Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, Hauser of Minnesota, Madigan of Iowa, McMillin of Indiana, and Eliot and Brown have been in good spirits despite the week-in, week-out hammerings their freshmen and 4-F's were forced to absorb.

Satisfied With Tie
Madigan's Iowa Hawkeyes are the only ones who haven't broken into the win column and they had the satisfaction of a 7 to 7 tie with Indiana, which with its Bob Hoernschmeyer certainly was one of the nation's outstanding non-military aggregations.

That overtime Ohio State win gives the Buckeyes three victories against five defeats for the campaign. Illinois hasn't fared badly—won three and lost six.

Minnesota has a 4 to 4 record, Indiana has won four, lost three and tied two. Wisconsin has had one of the most unfortunate seasons. In nine games only Iowa fell to the Badgers, who went scoreless in their last five straight.

The Badgers were dealt with gracefully by Michigan Saturday and lost only 27 to 6. Michigan will close against Ohio State and Purdue against Indiana this week with the two V-12 schools due to share the wartime championship.

Illinois will wind up against Northwestern, which became Notre Dame's eighth victim Saturday by a 25 to 6 count, and Wisconsin is to go with Minnesota, which downed Iowa 33 to 14 for its first conference win. Iowa skips outside the circuit to play Nebraska.

Great Lakes 21 to 7 victory over Indiana Saturday will entertain Marquette in the final tuneup for its game with Notre Dame Nov. 27. But all these games will have to take a seat behind the Notre Dame-Iowa Seahawks battle-royal at South Bend. The Seahawks pulled even with the Irish in victories by notching No. 8 Saturday against Camp Grant, 28 to 13. Both are unbeaten.

LEETONIA'S POWER STOPS CARROLLTON

McBride's Boys Win 13-7 To Wind Up Impressive Football Season

Flashing their scoring power in the second period, Leetonia High's griders tallied twice in the second frame to down a visiting Carrollton eleven 13 to 7 Saturday afternoon, in the final game of the season for both schools.

Leetonia drove to Carrollton's eight yard line early in the second stanza, and from there Lawrence Duco tossed a pass to Left Half Tony Dominic in the end zone for the initial score of the game. Shortly after the first score, Tony Dominic broke loose for a 20 yard gallop that brought the ball to Carrollton's one yard line. From there Joe Bernard, formerly center on the team but now playing quarterback, plunged for the marker.

Carrollton made its touchdown in the third quarter after Halback Stewart had raced from the Leetonia 35 to the one foot line. Fullback Stevens pushed over for the only score.

The game was the sixth win in an eight game schedule for the Leetonia team, and was a rebound from their upset suffered last week at Austintown when the Fitch squad outscored them 14 to 7.

Impressive Season
In winning six of eight contests Coach J. L. McBride's charges have run up a total of 152 points on their opponents and have allowed 32 markers over their own goal. The neighboring village defeated East Palestine 25 to 6, Canfield 27 to 6, Columbiana 14 to 0, Goshen 20 to 0, Lisbon 46 to 0, and Carrollton 13 to 7. They lost to Salem 13 to 0, and Austintown Fitch 14 to 7.

Only one Senior is on McBride's squad this year, and consequently the mentor expects a good year in 1944. Albert DeLucia, regular right end, is also only last year man on the team.

Coach Ben Barrett's First Season With Salem High Is Big Success, Records Show

With the football season over but not forgotten, a roundup of Salem's record shows that Coach Ben Barrett's first season with the Quakers was a successful one.

In winning seven of their eight games, the Quakers rolled together an impressive stack of statistics, which show their power against opponents even better than the final scores do in some cases. The locals gave football fans a thrilling card to watch at Reilly field, as three of the five battles performed there were won in the third quarter, twice when the Quakers were trailing by two touchdowns.

In the Ravenna game Salem scored twice in the third to overcome the Ravens' 13 point lead and win 14 to 13. In the Leetonia clash Salem started the second half by scoring twice in the third period to defeat a squad 13-0, that had outplayed them the first half.

Again, when Struthers visited Reilly field, the Quakers came back in the third to score twice and nose out the Big Red 13 to 12. Struthers led 12-0 at the half.

Average 18 Points A Game
Out of town Salem did almost as well, taking East Palestine 19 to 6 in an interesting battle, and wading the mud at Wellsville to capture a very close game 6 to 2. At Wellsville the Quakers played their most effective defensive game, holding the Bengals to just one first down and only 12 yards gained in scrimmages. The third road trip was the disastrous one, and the East Liverpool Potters spoiled an otherwise perfect record by smashing Salem 25 to 6.

In the Sebring and Lisbon games, the Quakers turned on their scoring power and rolled up 45 to 6, and 31 to 0 victories over two squads that fought to a scoreless tie in Lisbon this year. Barrett used his substitutes for most of both games, or the scores might easily have been much higher.

Totalling all their statistics, the Quakers averaged 18 points per game to 8 for the opposition as they rolled up 147 points to 52 in the eight game schedule.

Gain Many Yards Tur Air
The Barrett men recorded 91 first downs to 50 for foes, as they gained 1693 yards from rushing and held opponents to 837. These two totals give Salem an average of 224 yards per game against 111 for their opposition.

Through the air the Quakers garnered some 598 yards while others were collecting 278. The locals completed 35 passes this season in 110 tries. The opposition threw 39 passes against the Quakers and made 24 of them good.

Individual scoring ended up just about evenly divided between the three Senior ball carriers. Dick Greene totaled 42 points this year to end the season in a tie with Speedster "Plick" Entrikey. Ray "Butch" Wise wasn't far behind the leaders with his 36 points.

End Francis Lannoy, a Sophomore this season, managed two scores—one in the first game of the year and one in the last—to total 12 points. Senior Bob Shea collected seven points in the Lisbon game and Benny Kupka ran a blocked punt in the Sebring clash to pick up six points for himself. Walt

SEN. LUCAS PLEADS FOR U. S. BASEBALL

Tells Senate Sport Essential to Civilian, Military Morale

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Professional baseball is "absolutely essential" to civilian and military morale, Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) said today in pointing out that the sort is making valuable contributions to the war effort while using an "infinitesimal" part of the nation's manpower.

"My sincere hope is that nothing will be done by any agency of the government which will in any way disturb the continuation of this great American institution," Lucas said in an address prepared for senate delivery.

Baseball contributions to war funds totaled $2,128,698, he declared, and admission taxes paid the government through the National and American leagues for the 1942 and 1943 seasons amounted to $2,289,702. Sales of war bonds and stamps in drives sponsored by baseball interests netted $1,023,923,225, the senator said, and the baseball equipment fund raised $250,814 to furnish sports equipment for men in the armed forces.

GOVERNOR BRICKER

president of the United States should serve one term without thought of re-election and that an amendment should be submitted to the people of this country protect- ing against too long a tenure in the presidency.

Sees End of New Deal
"With these basic convictions and with a deep gratitude to the people of Ohio for the opportunities that I have had to serve them and to have had a constructive part in government during these danger- ous days, I want now to make it public that I shall not be a candidate for a fourth term as governor of Ohio."

Bricker said the New Deal had "come to the end of its service to the people."

"Confusion and distrust reign throughout the land," he said. "We need not alone a change of ad- ministration but a change of the philosophy of government held by many New Dealers. The playing of one class of our people against another, the building of pressure groups by government must come to an end."

No Government Restraint
"There is need for impartial and just administration as between all classes, groups and individuals in our society. The American people must be encouraged to look for- ward to the day as soon as possi- ble after victory when government restraint will be relieved, rationing with all its implications will end, business will be encouraged and individual liberty and opportunity restored."

An all-out presidential campaign was indicated at a dinner meet- ing with potential candidates for governor and Bricker intimates at the executive mansion last night, an authoritative source reported, and added there was no agreement as to who would head the Republi- can ticket in Ohio next year.

"Nobody indicated a willingness to withdraw as a prospective candi- date," the informant reported, add- ing that the reference to with- drawal indicated Bricker did not intend to try for a fourth term.

The governor has received several county and one district endorse- ments for renomination.

Observers believed three of the four possible candidates at the dinner would not oppose Bricker if he were a candidate again. They are: Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert and State Treasurer Don H. Ebricht. The fourth, Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati, has said he would enter the gubernatorial pri- mary regardless of Bricker's candi- dacy.

Senators Pledge Support
Bricker said in announcing at Chicago recently that he would enter the Ohio primary as a presi- dential candidate that his possible candidacy in other states "will de- pend on developments in the future."

Since then, Ohio Republican con- gressmen indicated they wanted the governor to make his position clear immediately. They said privately they thought his chances on the national field would be strength- ened by an early declaration and that some believed he should per- mit use of his name on ballots in other states to prevent voters from considering him only a "favorite son" candidate.

Both Ohio senators, Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati and Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, last week reiterated their support for Bricker as a presidential candidate.

Several midwestern and western Republican leaders have visited the governor in the past few months without disclosing whether they were sounding him out on his possi- ble candidacy, but Ohio political observers considered their visits significant.

G. O. P. Meeting In Washington Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Rep- resentative Jenkins (R-Ohio) said to- day Ohio Republican members of Congress would meet Wednesday night to discuss 1944 politics and legislation.

The conference, scheduled pre- viously for tonight, was postponed when Gov. John W. Bricker an- nounced his decision to forgo seek- ing a fourth term and to campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Jenkins said Senators Taft and Burton and the state's 20 Republi- can house members would be in- vited to the meeting.

It was expected the Ohioans would discuss Bricker's presidential campaign and sound out each other's choice for a successor to the governor.

More Sugar On Shelves

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—In- creased sugar inventories allowed retailers and wholesalers on a tem- porary basis through Nov. 15 will be maintained indefinitely, the Of- fice of Price Administration said today.

OPA originally allowed the in- creases to meet demands for home canning.

SOVIET ARMY

(A Berlin broadcast said today a big battle was raging in the Dnieper bend after the Russians, hurling nearly 500,000 men against the German defenses, had broken through between Zaporozhe and the area north and northwest of Kriev Rog.)

(The Paris radio in a broadcast recorded by Reuters said the Rus- sians had attempted new crossings of the Dnieper on both sides of Cherkassy, 70 miles northwest of Kremenchuk.)

A Russian communique an- nounced 50 towns were swept up in the drive toward the old Polish border, now less than 60 miles away.

Average 10 Miles a Day

While troops on the right flank of Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin's First Ukrainian front pushed ahead after capturing Chepovichi, 15 miles southeast of Korosten, cen- tral units drove directly west past retreating Zhitomir. This force yes- terday took Baranovka, 30 miles west of Zhitomir, exceeding the pace of more than 10 miles a day which has been made between Kiev and Zhitomir.

Vatutin's striking force is com- posed of tanks, cavalry and mo- torized infantry capable of press- ing closely on the heels of the re- treating Germans. The Soviet com- munique said Russian troops had liberated 4,000 civilians whom the Germans were driving to slave labor in Germany.

On the left flank Vatutin's men were reported to be meeting and overcoming repeated German coun- ter attacks.

Close-fought fighting which has marked all the combat in the Cri- mea continued in the Kerch penin- sula. Northeast of Kerch, the Ger- mans launched 11 counter attacks with infantry, tanks and self-pro- pelled guns, but all were repulsed. The communique said the Russians captured two strongly fortified points near Kerch, killing 500 Ger- mans.

est force since Salerno while ground stubborn enemy resistance has slowed the Allied advance to mile-by-mile progress.

After weeks during which only occasional Nazi aircraft were en- countered, a headquarters an- nouncement yesterday said no less than 60 had been counted during the day. Nine were shot in dog- fights over the upper Volturno val- ley and along the seacoast below Minturno.

Launch Counter Attacks

The Germans were counter at- tacking along both the Fifth and Eighth army fronts, but Allied gains were registered nevertheless.

The Sunday communique an- nounced Gen. Sir Bernard L. Mont- gomery's Eighth army troops had seized Aversa, a town 12 miles in- land from the Adriatic which gives an excellent outlook over the San- gro river six miles to the west.

German artillery pounded Allied posts on the Garigliano river line.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead said rain-soaked doughboys beat off several German counter-attacks in the Fifth army central sector yes- terday and held hard-won heights north of Mignano.

"The indications are the Ger- mans' so-called winter line may be from 10 to 15 miles in depth in the mountains looking down on the road to Rome," Whitehead re- ported, "and the enemy is strength- ening his positions as rapidly as possible."

At a point six miles north of Velletri, American units routed elements of two German battalions with few casualties to themselves.

Schools to Reopen

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Supt. John Donaldson announced West Union public schools, closed last week be- cause of a water supply failure, would reopen Wednesday.

HULL REPORTS

statement of principles to be fol- lowed towards all the other liberat- ed countries of Europe.

Hull stated the formula for deal- ing with Axis-occupied countries had been set up in Italy where an Allied commission will establish or- der and guarantee that free elec- tions will be held in order that the people may choose their own gov- ernments.

As soon as the military situation permits, the council on Italy will take over from General Eisen- hower's military commission.

Meanwhile the council to be established in London will investi- gate problems arising as other na- tions are liberated and will make specific recommendations and aid in settling disputes, Hull said.

Hull said he knew of no two coun- tries with more common interests and fewer conflicting interests than the United States and Russia in the whole field of economic relations.

Hull replied to criticisms that through omissions, the Moscow con- ference compromised the principles of the Atlantic charter.

Hull said no one of the participat- ing governments desired to com- promise the seven points of the charter and he hoped its basic pro- posals represent the ideas of the best thought of all American polit- ical parties.

Utilities Commission

Holds To Freight Rate

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—The Ohio Public Utilities commission an- nounced today its decision not to permit railroads to increase freight rates on intra-state shipments be- fore next June 30.

The action was taken in extend- ing until that date a May 15-Jan. 1 suspension of freight rates order- ed previously to conform with an Interstate Commerce commission decision. The commission said it found no grounds to justify lifting of the suspension at this time, as requested by all railroads in Ohio. Passenger rates were not af- fected.

The War Today

great quantities of supplies as they did in the early part of the war, then his recent losses in equipment on the bloody battle-fields of Russia wouldn't be so serious. But the American and British bombing team is ripping the German industrial centers to pieces. The Fuehrer can't replace his losses on the eastern front, and consequently is grow- ing weaker each day as he pulls his line back and leaves more supplies behind.

THE HARSH COROLLARY to this is that even if the Nazi chief could replace his losses in manpower, which he cannot do—he would be unable to give them the equipment necessary to withstand the Russian onslaught. The German army supplies great defensive power as we likely shall have demonstrated when we undertake the great in- vasions of France, but it has shot its bolt as an offensive machine.

As things stand, the fate of the retreating German forces is boun- ded about like the ball in a roulette wheel, and nobody can say where the ball will drop. While there are bound to be local Nazi disasters, one would expect them to keep rene- ing in hope of being able to make a stand before long. However, Hitler may not be able to bring his war- machine out of its skid and it may just keep on sliding towards the Reich.
